About E3Live AFA

What Is AFA?

It's a life-changing food. Aphanizomenon flos-aquae (AFA), meaning "invisible flower of the water," is a freshwater nutritional plant, an edible blue-green microalgae that sits at the very foundation of the food chain. E3Live's AFA is certified organic, non-GMO, and vegan, and is wild-harvested by E3Live from Upper Klamath Lake in Oregon. This alkaline lake is nestled in a mineral-rich volcanic basin, creating a naturally nourishing environment where the AFA blue-green algae flourishes. This nutrient-dense whole food contains over 65 vitamins, minerals, amino acids, and essential fatty acids.

Take a journey from the mountains to Klamath Lake, where our AFA grows: watch the video.

Why Is AFA Beneficial for the Body?

The health benefits of AFA have been documented for nearly four decades. AFA supports immune function, including the activation and migration of NK cells. It contains phycocyanin, which research suggests may support healthy, whole-body inflammation responses, and phenylethylamine (PEA), which research suggests may support a positive mood balance and mental clarity. AFA also helps support the release and migration of our own adult bone marrow stem cells, which support the body's natural renewal of organs and tissue.

Many published studies on the benefits of AFA are available on our website:

Why Fresh-Frozen? It's All About Life Force.

Eating plants as close to their living state as possible gives you the most vitality and benefit. It's like comparing a fresh juicy apple slice to a dried apple slice — while both are good, the fresh version is bursting with "life force." That's what Fresh-Frozen E3Live offers: fresh whole food nutrients, straight from nature, ready to nourish your body.

Superior Absorption: Fresh AFA retains vital enzymes and key nutrients, ensuring optimal bioavailability for faster, more noticeable results.

What Does the Fresh-Frozen Taste Like?

Most people say it is similar to the way green grass smells when you are mowing it. The extracts BrainON and BrainON Supreme taste stronger. If you prefer a flavored option, then try our apple-lemon flavored fresh-frozen.

Which Frozen Algae Is for Me?

- For foundational daily support, we start with E3Live Original.
- For enhanced focus and cognitive support, we choose BrainON.
- For those wanting extra protein plus advanced nutrient synergy, we offer Spirulina + E3Live Synergy.

AFA in Capsules and Powder

If you prefer the convenience of dried algae, we offer it in capsules and powder. You can add powder to smoothies or other foods. This option is ideal if you don't have freezer or refrigerator space, or when you're traveling, heading to work, or on the go. Whether you choose fresh-frozen or dried algae, you're covered by our one-year money-back guarantee. If you don't feel the difference, simply return your purchase within one year for a refund, in accordance with our return policy.

How Long Does It Take to Notice Results?

Everyone is different. Some people notice a difference right away, while others notice changes gradually. We recommend giving it at least 90 days and paying attention to how you feel. Start with the recommended serving amount on the label, then increase gradually as needed. Remember to drink plenty of water throughout the day. The label's serving recommendations provide a starting point and guidance for daily maintenance; some people choose to take additional servings throughout the day.

Blue Majik Capsules, Fine Powder and On-The-Go Singles

E3Live introduced Blue Majik in 2009 and sparked a world-wide blue algae movement. But beware, not all blue spirulina is the same. Our proprietary extract of organic Spirulina (Arthrospira platensis) contains over 40% phycocyanin, is never chemically extracted, and has nothing added. Phycocyanin is a natural antioxidant that helps neutralize free radicals, supports joint comfort, healthy energy, and immune function, and promotes overall well-being. It's also used in wonderful blue culinary delights!
